“ Ms. Charlotte... ☐☐

You were the very first person I met when I moved to Baton Rouge. I still laugh thinking about how it all started — you asking me for a ride to go buy cat food. From that moment on, you became family. You loved them twins and always showed love to my whole family. Every time my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myers, came down, you made sure to ask about them, and they loved seeing you just as much. You even introduced me to your family, and they welcomed me with open arms like I was blood.

One memory I'll never forget is cooking you mustard greens and hot water cornbread. You could not believe I could cook that good. 😂 You talked about that meal forever. Moments like that meant so much because it was never just about food — it was about love, laughter, and feeling at home.

Ms. Charlotte could make me laugh every single time I saw her. I can still hear you saying, “I hope your husband don't get mad when I come over,” and laughing right behind it. 😂 Those little moments will stay with me forever.

You were more than a neighbor or friend — you were family. A grandma figure, a safe place, and somebody who genuinely loved people. I'm thankful for every memory, every laugh, and every conversation we shared.

I know Heaven got a little louder now because you're up there making the angels laugh too. Get your rest, Ms. Charlotte. You will truly be missed. 🕊️☐☐
